THE PARLIAMENTARY SHOW

(By J. S. Cowper)

The last days of the U.F.A. reign in the Alberta Legislature are like a Donnybrook Fair, with one of the ex-ministers assailing a witness who appeared on behalf of the press, and Edmonton's mayor being removed from the gallery of the House and prohibited from further entry for calling Mr. O. L. McPherson a liar during the ex-minister's speech.

Much to the surprise of gallery viscerators, the Legislature did not prorogue last Thursday night as expected. Far too many issues of vital effect in the coming general election cropped up. Despite the anxiety of farmer members and others to get back to their homes and businesses, the House adjourned to Saturday and was expected to sit all of Easter week.

With tempers frayed and nerves on edge the members had still to dispose of three important matters. First was the brace of bills designed to muzzle the press of Alberta. The penalties are ruinous. Fines are provided of $5,000.00 if the paper is owned by a company and of $1,000.00 apiece on the individual owner, published and editor, if any mention is made of evidence in a divorce or matrimonial suit, or of any proceeding before a judge in chambers. Nothing but a scant outline of a lawsuit is to be allowed. Coming at the close of the session it led to vigorous protests from opposition members, backed by the daily papers, the weekly newspapers association and seven hundred newsmen, all of whom will be affected by the bills.

After two days of protests, the Attorney-general weakened. He offered to modify the bills so as to permit reports of the final judgments in the action to set aside on grounds of alleged fraud, the gloves obtained by the former Hon. O. L. McPherson, and the appeal in the damage action for seduction of a government stenographer brought against former Premier J. E. Brownlee.

So heated were the feelings that in a discussion over an affidavit made by one of the newspaper witnesses, the former Hon. O. L. McPherson, assaulted Chas. E. Campbell, publisher of the Edmonton Bulletin outside the Legislative chamber. The blow which took Mr. Campbell unaware was not serious, but the publisher was knocked out by his head striking the marble stairway.

Mr. McPherson later made a verbal attack on Mayor Joe E. Clarke, of Edmonton, in the House. When Mayor Clarke called out from the public gallery to the ex-minister "You're a liar and you know it," he was requested to leave. The Speaker later gave orders that the Edmonton mayor or is not to be allowed in the Chamber again during the present legislative session. The press fight was still raging when the Good Friday adjournment was reached.

Second issue is the question of the bill brought in by Fred White, Labor leader, to allow university professors to run for the Legislature or for Parliament without risk of dismissal. In the course of the debate, it was divulged that Premier Reid and ex-Premier Brownlee had gone to the University Senate with a proposal that the ban against running for office be suspended for one year, to permit Pro. W. H. Alexander to run in Edmonton, and thereafter be invoked against all others.

This led to heated accusations that the premier and ex-premier are using the university for political purposes. The fight was not over when the Legislature adjourned for Good Friday.

Third issue is the question of Social Credit. When the question of approving the action of the Reid government in inviting Major C. H. Douglas to come to Alberta at a cost to the taxpayers of $13,000.00 came before the House, W. R. Howson, Liberal leader, in approving the invitation charged the government with bad

DR. J. W. OGDEN AT BLAIRMORE UNITED CHURCH

On Sunday next, April 28th, at 7.30 in the evening, Rev. J. Williams Ogden, D.D., will open a mission in Central United Church, Blairmore, continuing throughout the week and concluding on Friday evening, May 3rd. There who heard Dr. Ogden a year ago need not to be told of his power as a preacher. His inspirational messages are still remembered by many. He has just concluded a successful series of missions in Coleman, Pincher Creek and Hillcrest. Blairmore will mark the conclusion of his Pass visit for this year.

The people are urged to attend on Sunday next and keep up the attendance right through the week. It is a rare privilege to hear such an outstanding preacher, whose convincing preaching arises out of more than a half century of ministry.

No offering plate will be passed at the week night services, but those desiring to contribute to the expenses of the mission may make use of an offering plate which will be placed at the church door. On Friday evening, a special thank-offering will be taken up.

All are cordially invited to attend these services.

faith. "Here you are inviting Major Douglas to come here," he said, "on the excuse that you want to know more about Social Credit before deciding what action to take on it, while all the time you are making speeches in the House, over the radio and before public gatherings, denouncing Social Credit as a menace."

Mr. Howson charged that the government is taking $13,000.00 of the public's money, not to get information about Social Credit, but to try and confuse the public during election time. He said it was no wonder that Wm. Aberhart had refused the government's invitation to come to Edmonton and tell them about Social Credit, while members of the government are denouncing and ridiculing Social Credit in the bitter terms.

According to rumors round the House, an entente has been arrived at between the government, the Conservatives and the Labor group to form a union government to try to make Social Credit the issue in the coming campaign. The Labor group has all along acted the part of a tail to the government dogs, while D. M. Dugan, leader of the Conservative party, and H. C. Farthing, K.C., his chief lieutenant, have both given radio addresses severely opposing Social Credit. The government undoubtedly would prefer to get away from any discussion of its record, or of the conduct of its ministers and ex-ministers and make Social Credit the issue instead.

Just before adjournment on Thursday, Hugh J. Montgomery, Liberal member for Wetaskiwin, brought in a resolution advocating that the government do as other provincial governments have done—sell all the automobiles purchased for the use of the ministers. He said these are being used for private purposes and for political trips.

BLAIRMORE WILL OBSERVE THE KING'S JUBILEE

Blairmore will fall in line with other towns in Canada, and celebrate in a fitting manner the King's Jubilee on May the 6th.

At a well attended and representative meeting held in the Lodge hall last night, committees were formed and a programme for the day was briefly outlined.

A monster parade will open the day's events, to be followed by sports for the children at the Blairmore stadium, including softball, football, baseball and races. A grand Jubilee dance will be held in the Columbus hall at night, sponsored by the I.O. D.E.

A well known public speaker will be invited to Blairmore, and will deliver an appropriate patriotic address.

W. H. Chappell, Jr., was chosen chairman of the parade committee, including Robert Oakes, Roland Pinkney, Mrs. S. McKay and Mrs. E. A. Harper. A. E. Ferguson, J. V. McDougall and E. A. Harper comprise the finance committee. J. A. McDonald, A. Vejprava, Ed. Womersley, F. M. Thompson and H. Mundie will look after the sports. A concession was given to the ladies to arrange for the sale of pop, ice cream, coffee, etc., on the grounds. That committee comprises Mesdames Wolstenholme, Paul, Perry, Walker, Harper, Slinister, McVey and Moore. J. B. Harner was chosen chairman of the publicity committee, with W. J. Bartlett, O. A. Potter and J. V. McDougall.

The meeting went on record as endorsing the action of the mayor and council in supporting the King's Jubilee Cancer Fund.

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

A few days ago, a neatly dressed lady used a phone in a somewhat public place and asked central for "Hill Sixty." Hill Sixty, as known to this region, is not charted, but is somewhat under the protection of the mayor and council of Blairmore. It houses ladies of easy virtue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Antrobus and Freda, accompanied by Miss M. Chardon, were motor visitors to Calgary during Easter.

M. A. Murphy, of Cowley, has tendered his resignation as president of the Pincher Creek Social Credit constituency, on the grounds of Social Credit having entered the political arena.

Builders And Wreckers

Glancing through a little trade magazine the other day the writer came across a short bit of verse entitled "Wreckers", which, in these days and times, is worthy of still wider circulation. So we reproduce it:

I watched them tearing a building down,
A gang of men in a busy town,
With a ho-heave-ho and a lusty yell,
They swung a beam and the side wall fell.
I asked the foreman, "Are these men skilled,
And the men you'd hire if you had to build?"
He gave a laugh and said, "No, indeed!
Just common labor is all I need.
I can easily wreck in a day or two
What builders have taken a year to do."
I thought to myself as I went my way,
Which of these roles have I tried to play?
Am I a builder who works with care,
Measuring life by the rule and square?
Am I shaping my deeds to a well-made plan,
Patiently doing the best I can?
Or am I a wrecker, who walks the town,
Content with the labor of tearing down?

All over this world of ours there are men and women earnestly striving to build—people in governments, in churches, in education, in finance, in industry, in business; statesmen around the League of Nations council table, sitting in international conferences, or engaged in diplomatic negotiations. They are trying to build anew out of the wreckage and upheaval of political, economic and social conditions thrown into chaos by the Great War and its bitter aftermath. They are striving to save civilization, and make it a finer thing than anything hitherto known.

But because the times are temporarily out of joint, weaknesses have developed in the economic system, social evils have become multiplied; in a word, because abnormal conditions exist and many people are in difficulties, the "wreckers" have become bold and walk the town blatantly engaged in the easiest of all tasks—that of tearing down. Men and women who never constructed anything, who lack both the ability and the incentive to construct, are busy themselves in criticizing the efforts of the builders, imputing unworthy motives to them, seeking to wreck anything and everything of a constructive nature that is attempted.

Even the best and most patient of people are inclined to be critical and become fault-finders. In fact, how often are people now heard to speak in praise of anything, of any institution, or of any effort that is being put forth? Rather, is it not the general attitude to denounce and attack blame?

The popular thing to-day seems to be to destroy, to wreck. In some countries they are deliberately trying to destroy religion and so to revert to the dark ages; in these and other countries the attempt is being made to deprive people of liberties won through the suffering and bloodshed of past generations. The wreckers would in a day tear down the constructive work of centuries.

There are those, of course, who still hold fast to the faith that is in them; who still believe in liberty as the sacred right of the individual citizen; who hold to democratic forces of government and trust in the people and hatred of dictatorial autocracies.

Builder or wrecker—which are you? Which class has brought mankind to its present civilization? Which class lifted mankind from the cave-man stage? Which group has developed modern medicine, which is responsible for modern inventions, which built our transportation and communication systems, our modern towns and cities, which brought into being the higher standard of life in the twentieth century? And was it not the wreckers who precipitated the Great War and are responsible for the whole train of evils which have followed.

The builders are still building in the face of enormous difficulties and the opposition of the wreckers; the builders are striving to save civilization which the wreckers would destroy through revolution and bloodshed in order that out of civilization's crash they may reap goulash benefits.

Each of us may well take stock of ourselves, study our present habits of thinking, examine our actions, watch our words—in brief, take a measure of our lives and see whether we are builders, "patiently doing the best we can," or merely wreckers "content with the labor of tearing down."

To Keep Informed

A representative of the Dominion government will visit Denmark soon to study operation of a peat development plant using a formula for which representatives of a British company have been seeking a subsidy for development here. This step is taken in order to keep fully informed of any new fuel development that might prove economically useful to Canada.

Funds For Memorial

More than 29 countries are now enlisted in the campaign to collect funds for a Florence Nightingale memorial. It is to take the form of endowed post-graduate courses of training in nursing, to be conducted in London. The League of Red Cross Societies have financed such courses for several years, but no longer has funds for such a purpose.

Indian Did Not Forget

Sends Gift To Lawyer Who Saved His Son In Trial
Sixteen months ago, Nanaimo jurist acquitted Andrew Moses, elder Port Alberni Indian, of a charge of attempted murder—a charge laid after an Indian from the West coast of Vancouver Island, who had allegedly stolen Andrew's girl-wife, was subdued through the heat and saved from death by a young Victoria surgeon.

For two days the jury listened to how Andrew had followed his pretty 18-year-old wife whom he had married according to Indian custom.

When he found her there was a fight and Charlie Sam was stabbed in the heart. Sam's life was in doubt for more than a month but he recovered eventually and Moses went on trial.

When the jury returned its verdict Chief Moses, Andrew's father, broke a two-day court room silence. "I don't forget you," he said to R. L. Maitland, K.C., his son's counsel. "I don't forget you save Andrew's life. Andrew's good boy. You won't forget me."

Recently Mr. Maitland received two eight-foot intricately carved totem poles. What each figure and character denotes he will probably never fully know, but whenever he looks at them he will know that the old chief did not forget.

BROKE HER LEG
AGAINST A STAIRWhilst Hampered by Rheumatism

"Two years ago," writes a woman, "I was suffering with rheumatism in my legs, and when walking upstairs one day just kicked my right foot against the stairs, and broke my leg just below the knee. I was in hospital for four months and when I came out someone advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and now I have no trace of rheumatism. I would not be without my daily dose of Kruschen, which I take every morning—half a teaspoonful in warm water."—Mrs. P. B.

The six salts in Kruschen stimulate the liver and kidneys to healthy, regular action; assist them to get rid of the excess uric acid which is the cause of rheumatic pains. When poisonous uric acid goes—with the deposits of needle-point crystals—there's no doubt about those aches and pains going too!

Bank Of Canada

Will Pay Its First Dividend To Shareholders Next July

When the Bank of Canada pays its first dividend next July the amount going to each shareholder will be based upon the time the first share instalment was paid, it was learned at Ottawa.

Applicants for shares were required to send their orders for $2.50 for each share received, representing one-quarter of the cost per share. Dividends will be reckoned, therefore, on $12.50 per share from September 1, 1934, to January 2, 1935, and on the full purchase price of $50.00 per share from January 2 to the date of declaration, probably July 2.

The actual rate of dividend will not be known until it is declared by the board of directors, but under section 31 of the Bank of Canada Act, it cannot exceed 4 1/2 per cent. a year, cumulative. Any excess profits over the maximum dividend requirements go to the rest fund and the consolidated revenue fund of Canada.

Want Branch Lines

Fica Is Made For Completion Of Two Branch Lines In Northern Saskatchewan

A plea for completion of two branch lines of the Canadian National Railways in northern Saskatchewan was made before the select standing committee on railways by C. R. McIntosh (Lib., North Battleford). Mr. McIntosh was supported in his request by P. G. Davies (Cons., Athabasca).

At present a branch line runs north from North Battleford, Sask., to St. Walberg, a distance of 90 miles, but the remaining 100 miles to Beaver River Crossing is uncompleted. This line was projected originally to join North Battleford with Edmonton. Mr. McIntosh urged the road be completed, and estimated the cost to be not more than $350,000. The other line was from North Battleford to Edmonton, via Spruce Lake.

Idea Netted Personal Fortune

Sir Guy Standing Made Money Selling Old War Equipment

If it had not been for the Great War, Sir Guy Standing might not have been able to take up acting as a hobby.

He is well known for the excellence of his paintings and his adventures in the British navy, for which he was knighted by the king. But he said that when the king's sword descended on his shoulders, he had but $40 in his pocket.

Sir Guy, after the war, observed miles of United States tanks, tractors, automobiles and other transportation lined along the Rhine. He formed the Motor Organization, Ltd., set out to buy this equipment and sell it to Europe, which was trying to rehabilitate itself.

When the transaction was completed, Sir Guy discovered Britain had a like amount of leftover war equipment that he had to get rid of. Such competition would ruin his company, so he managed to buy this equipment as well. It took nine years for the company to sell and clear its books, but the result was a large personal fortune for him.

"A fortune," he explained, "which permitted me to make acting my favorite hobby."

"But you can be sure of one thing. I'm through with big business. It leaves too many gray hairs."

Sir Guy is 60 and one of Hollywood's popular characters.

Drinking And Driving

Danish Professors Conclude That

These Two Do Not Mix
Drinking and driving don't mix well concluded two Danish professors, who recently tested the reactions of a group of drivers who had been given the alcoholic equivalent of three nice highballs. Tested by apparatus designed especially to note mental and physical alertness, it was found that the highball squad were 17 per cent slower to react than those persons who had gone thirsty.

Consumption of alcohol, showed the experiments, adversely affected the speed of a driver in applying the foot brake and the strength of his grip on the steering wheel.

Marine Food

Say Seaweed Contains All Of The Important Vitamins

Down to the sea for seaweed will be man's next step in his quest for food. Prof. Josephine E. Tilden, University of Minnesota botanist and leader of a scientific expedition to Japan, Australia and New Zealand, to collect marine algae, said at Minneapolis.

"Marine algae," said Prof. Tilden, "are sources of all four of the important vitamins, A, B, C and D."

Saw It All Right

Elizabeth Harwood, Cleveland, visited a seeress. She was told "your husband will come back when he's tired of a blond" and "your husband is having trouble with the police." "Yes, sir," the fortune teller continued, "I see iron bars and blue coats. It means jail." It did. Miss Elizabeth Harwood, an unmarried policewoman, took the seeress to jail.

Little Journeys In Science

THE SPECTROSCOPE

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Scientists have shown that the earth and every star which can be observed by the telescope, including the most distant, are composed of the same substances. Of course the proportions are different, but the substances are not.

A glass prism in the hands of the great scientist Sir Isaac Newton in 1672 commenced the train of thought that led to this discovery. Newton observed that the prism split up ordinary sunlight into the various colors of which it is composed. The prism was the beginning of a very powerful instrument of science, namely the spectroscope, which was developed about a hundred years later.

It is this instrument that tells us that all the suns and planets are composed of the same materials in different proportions.

The spectroscope sees more than our eyes enable us to see. Man can only observe those substances that give off vibrations to which our eyes are sensitive. The spectroscope is sensitive to all vibrations that matter sends out. We cannot see colorless gases, but the spectroscope can. In fact this instrument can see gases so plainly that it can tell one from another. This is because every solid substance and every kind of gas sends out vibrations, each having a rate of vibration of its own. Science has determined the rates of vibration of the various solids and gases of which the earth is composed. When the same vibrations come from other planets and suns scientists know that they are composed of the same materials that are in the earth.

Research Council

Work Carried On By This Body Is Worth Millions To The Farmers

With their work estimated at tens of millions of dollars in value to farmers, associate committees of the National Research Council held their seventh annual convention held at Winnipeg.

Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the council, declared in his windup address that the group had as much of Canada's future in its hands as any other body of Canadian citizens. The work was worth millions to farmers, he declared.

Farrell was said to Dr. O. S. Aamodt, University of Alberta, who will shortly join the staff of the University of Wisconsin. Regretting Dr. Aamodt's departure, the council members extended him best wishes in his new work. Tribute to Dr. Tory's work was voiced by Dr. W. C. Murray, president of the University of Saskatchewan.

Sub-committees were re-established and their chairman named.

Motor Car Industry

Decried For Cars In United States

Fits Industry In High Gear

The No. 1 industrial colossus of the United States, the motor car industry, is in high gear. In haul-away trucks, in freight cars and in drive-away processions the product of the assembly lines is moving from factory to dealer and on to consumer in heavier volume than at any time during the last five years.

Gaining momentum steadily under the impetus of a swelling consumer demand, the industry has assembled more than 1,313,000 passenger cars and trucks since Jan. 1. During 19 years of 1935, the industry produced as many units as were manufactured in all of 1932. Output for that year, lowest point in the depression, was 1,431,494 cars and trucks.

Does Not Want Freedom

Rev. L. D. Stiefel was for a constant companion on his motor trips about the Wind River Indian reservation in Wyoming a domesticated wild finch. Seven years ago he captured the bird near Castle Rock, Colo., after it had broken a wing. It soon became a household pet and, although free to leave at any time, returns to its cage each night.

The Japanese are leaving no stones unturned in their expansion to major world power. Their new merchant marine fleet, the finest naval reserve in the world, is speedily dominating Pacific Ocean shipping. One of six new luxury liners being built by Japan has entered service; a fleet of 50 freighters which travel at speed of more than 20 miles per hour, span Tokyo to San Francisco in 11 days with rich cargoes of silk. This constitutes a tremendous saving in time and dollars.

WORKS PLAN IS LEFT OVER FOR EASTER RECESS

Ottawa.—The House of Commons started a five weeks' Easter recess with the $33,000,000 construction bill left high and dry. After a long day of verbal battles several appropriations were passed when the 6 o'clock adjournment hour rolled around and will be re-considered May 20 when parliament reassembles.

The Liberals were charged by Minister of Railways R. J. Manion with blocking the construction bill but they shouted angry denials. The chief stumbling block was a vote of $1,000,000 for a tunnel between the Toronto mainland and a summer resort on Hanlan's Island in the harbor. Liberals urged the vote be changed and enlarged, if necessary, to start a sluiceway scheme in Toronto, claiming there was no necessity for the harbor tunnel. Conservatives argued the Dominion was obligated by a 1913 agreement to connect the mainland and the island with a bridge or tunnel and pointed in glowing terms the development of a seaport base in the harbor which would become the aerial hub of the continent.

Indication the government intended to do something to relieve slum conditions was given by Minister of Public Works Hugh Stewart.

The Toronto vote was not to be shifted to slum clearing, he said, but he advised the house to wait for the legislation to be introduced after the recess dealing with the recommendations of the housing committee. When the members packed their bags and dashed for their trains, the following appropriations had passed through committee stage: Railway grade separation fund, $1,000,000; geological surveys, $1,000,000; Montreal harbor improvements, $3,500,000; Quebec harbor improvements, $1,125,000; canal, $750,000 and western water conservation works, $500,000.

The appropriation of $15,000,000 to guarantee railway equipment securities of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railway had not been reached.

Flight To Honolulu

Clipper Plane "Pioneer" Makes Trip Under 18 Hours

Honolulu.—The big clipper plane "Pioneer" alighted on Pearl harbor here, after a 2,400-mile flight from Alameda, Calif.

Gliding gracefully down in a wide circle, the clipper split the waters of Pearl harbor exactly three minutes before her scheduled landing time. The ship had spent 52 minutes cruising over the city and adjacent cane fields.

The clipper travelled the 2,400 miles in 17 hours and 45 minutes, cutting seven hours off the standing record for the distance. At times it hit an 160 mile-an-hour clip.

The clipper's time was just seven hours better than the previous mark in the six other successful flights across the Pacific from California. A navy mass flight of six planes made the trip in 24 hours and 45 minutes, Jan. 11, 1934.

Its crew of six flashed back frequent messages of progress.

References to an ocean sunset, moonlight, and the beauties of soaring above cloud banks that obscured the water were made in the reports which otherwise were as routine as the constant flight of the graceful four-motored craft.

Tax Higher Salaries

Edmonton.—Higher salaries are struck a fresh blow by the provincial government under the terms of a bill to amend the Income Tax Act which was given second reading in the legislature. The act provides for higher levies on those whose incomes, after allowing for exemptions, are in excess of $5,000 per year.

Progressing Favorably

Edmonton.—A chestnut, of Grouard, Alta., flown into Edmonton after having one hand crushed beneath a snowmobile, was reported by hospital attaches here to be progressing favorably. He may be in the hospital for two weeks. Four fingers were amputated.

Complete Wedding Trip

London.—A sunbaked and happy, the Duke and Duchess of Kent landed at Croydon airfield after a flight from Paris completing their wedding trip abroad.

Message Of Loyalty

Senate Unites With House Of Commons In Address To The King

Ottawa.—The senate united with the House of Commons in the address to the King expressing loyal and respectful congratulations on the 25th anniversary of his accession to the throne.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, senate leader, as mover, and Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, as seconder, moved that the upper house join in the address passed last week by the commons.

"We, who possibly best of all citizens of the empire," Senator Meighen stated, "know of the blessings that flow from the occupancy of the throne by a person of the character and great common sense of His Majesty the King, are particularly pleased to offer our congratulations. To us who believe that we are of a country where the best forms of democratic government had their birth, it is a matter of extreme gratification that at a time when the institutions of democracy have been subjected to a continuous and ferocious challenge, as never before in their history, our institutions, in the full flush of their democracy, are presided over by a monarch such as blesses the British Empire."

"We all join heartily in wishing long life and happiness to His Majesty King George, to his gracious consort, and to members of the royal family," Senator Dandurand said.

Want Wheat Conference

Propose Meeting To Be Held In Argentina To Discuss Wheat Exports

Buenos Aires.—An invitation to Canadian and Australian farm organizations to send representatives here for a conference to discuss the removal of limitation on wheat exports was sent by the Argentine Co-operative Association. The latter is composed of 25,000 farmers from all sections of the Argentine.

London.—The wheat consultative committee probably will meet in London May 15, it was reported.

The big four wheat exporting countries, Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina, met in London early in March but failed to reach any agreement for extension of the existing agreement limiting wheat exports, which extends only until July 31 next.

Investigate Auto Industry

Tariff Board To Visit Plants Where Motor Cars Are Produced

Ottawa.—The tariff board will begin the investigation of the automobile industry by visits to the plants which produce motor cars and parts. These visits will likely be made this week, it was learned.

The hearing of evidence will open in Calgary when the board is there in connection with the gasoline inquiry. The board had planned going to Calgary early in May but requests have come from those submitting evidence in that city to have the hearing postponed. The board will comply with this request.

While in the west the board will go to Vancouver where hearings will be conducted in connection with both inquiries. Afterwards the board will return to Ottawa and conclude its hearings in this city.

Lake Navigation Opens

First Cargoes Of Grain Vessels Clear From Fort William

Fort William.—Thrilling their way through a passage cut in the ice, five vessels cleared from the harbor, loaded with grain and headed "down-lake" with the first cargoes of the 1935 season. Vessels were the Stadacona, Donnacona, Granby, Winnipeg and Shakatoon, owned by the Canada Steamship Lines.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.—Thirteen days ahead of last year, the steamship L. E. Block opened navigation at this port, upbound for Marquette to load ore.

Protest Coal Price Cut

Edmonton.—Reduction of prices by 50 cents a ton paid by the C.N.R. fuel department to mines in the Coalpur region, was protested in a resolution, passed by the legislature, on motion of Chris Pattinson, Labor, Edson.

Seize Lottery Tickets

Niagara Falls, N.Y.—Postal officials here disclosed that 12,000 Canadian lottery tickets mailed from this city to various parts of the United States have been seized. They believe the tickets were smuggled across the border here and mailed.

SENATE APPROVES BILL TO COMBAT DROUTH MENACE

Ottawa.—Sweeping legislative decks for the Easter recess, the senate gave second and third reading to bills to provide for rehabilitation of drouth and soil drifting areas in the prairie provinces, supply of one-twelfth of the main estimates, and to permit the Bank of Canada to export gold under license as in the case of chartered banks.

The elder statesmen then proceeded to give first reading to measures for a minimum wage, authorizing provision of money to meet expenditures and indebtedness of the Canadian National Railways during 1935, changes in the copyright act relating to performing rights in musical work and reducing the cut in civil servants' salaries.

The bill of the T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto East), to compel newspapers to publish a list of their shareholders, had a setback. When the measure was called for second reading, its sponsor, Hon. James Murdoch (Lib., Ottawa), moved the bill be discharged from the order paper for the day to be placed on the order paper for June 4. The motion carried.

The rehabilitation bill to spend $750,000 this year and $1,000,000 annually for a specified period would be a solution of the problem of drouth and soil drifting areas in the western provinces, saw Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, senate leader—Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, Senator W. A. Buchanan (Lib., Lethbridge), and Senator J. A. Calder (Cons., Regina) take the floor. All agreed the legislation was desirable to fight the menace.

"A large section of our heritage is threatened," Senator Meighen stated, in speaking of drouth and dust storms in the southern portion of Western Canada. Consequently, he continued, it was the part of wisdom to address the problem of trying to find some way of rescuing from this devastation as much of that area as could possibly be rescued.

The problem was not a simple one, and many had advanced schemes of solution, Senator Meighen said. Opinions of those whose judgment ought to be best differed in important features. For the present, reforestation seemed to hold sway in the minds of public men in the United States, but there was grave doubt as to whether or not this solution would accomplish anything in the immediate future.

In speaking of the proposed personnel of the commission, Senator Meighen stated the intention was to combine the practical with the theoretical, to associate scientific men with those who had actually lived among and wrestled with problems on the land. The commission would devise experimental tests, the kind of which would be met by the money provided.

Senator Dandurand believed the bill would be unanimously accepted by the house.

Senator Buchanan declared he looked upon the bill as important not only to western farmers but to the whole Dominion, because if it succeeded in solving the problem it would benefit every person who had an investment in those sections. "If we were to allow the southern parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which are affected by drouth and soil drifting, to be abandoned without any effort to reclaim them," Senator Buchanan stated, "the loss of the mortgage companies and the individuals would run into hundreds of millions of dollars."

"I think," Senator Buchanan said, "the commission will probably find it desirable to make a systematic effort to determine the best means for reclaiming and rehabilitating certain areas, and to this end some studies will probably be undertaken to find out the most suitable uses to which the lands can be put."

Increase In Rates

Railway Commissioners Grant Request For Increase On International Traffic

Ottawa.—The board of railway commissioners has decided to grant the request of the Canadian railways for an increase in rates on international traffic between Canada and the United States to conform with the emergency increases granted U.S. lines by the interstate commerce commission. Increases which range to seven per cent. and are limited by maximum rates per hundred pounds, will come into effect on April 18.

The board was convinced shippers would have to pay the increases on international traffic in any event. The difference would be that if the board refused the application of the Canadian roads, the increase would all go to the United States railways. The principal commodities which will be excluded from the increased rates are: Grain, flour, mill products, hay, straw, fruits of all kinds, vegetables, livestock except horses, milk, pulpwood, lumber except certain woods, and fertilizers.

Health Conference

Ottawa.—The conference of provincial ministers of health with Hon. D. M. Sutherland, federal minister of pensions and national health, will open in Ottawa, April 25, Mr. Sutherland stated.

Ban Slot Machines

Edmonton.—The ban on slot machines in this province will take effect July 1 next, when similar legislation also will become operative in Saskatchewan, the legislature in committee of the whole decided.

SETS REMARKABLE SOLO FLIGHT RECORD

Here is Mr. H. L. Brook, British aviator, after he had landed at Croydon Aerodrome from Australia. He completed the flight from London to Sydney in 7 days, 19 hours, 15 minutes, thus breaking the record for the solo flight from Australia, held by Mr. C. J. Melrose, by some thirteen hours.

Price Spread Report

More State Intervention In Business Is Deemed Necessary

Ottawa.—Creation of a federal trade and industry commission with wide powers of law enforcement, supervision over business and suppression of unfair, unethical commercial practices, was the main recommendation of the price spreads commission.

It would be a commission of five men, operating directly under the prime minister in somewhat the same way as the Dominion board of railway commissioners.

"We have been forced by the evidence," the report stated, "to conclude the situation calls for a frank recognition of the necessity of more state intervention in business."

The trade commission would be empowered to:

Enforce the Combines Act to restrain and restore competition.

Regulate industrial monopolies where open competition cannot or would not exist. An industry would be declared monopolistic, exempted from the operation of the Combines Act and automatically come within the supervision of the trade commission.

Sanction and supervise agreements between industrial units modifying cut-throat competition and generally regulate the industry.

Prohibit unfair competitive practices.

Supervise or co-operate in administering laws relating to merchandising and business practice for which no agency exists.

Administer laws to protect consumers.

Regulate security issues for the protection of the investor.

Co-operate with chambers of commerce and boards of trade in development of commercial arbitration or refereeing of business disputes.

Co-operate with other government agencies, federal, provincial or municipal, in solution of trade problems.

Railway Dining Car Runs

Propose Longer Period Of Layover At Winnipeg

Montreal.—A proposed rearrangement of dining car runs between Montreal and Winnipeg will not have the effect of transferring the headquarters of the dining car department from Montreal to Winnipeg, but result in the longer period of layover being at the latter city, W. W. Swindon, general superintendent of sleeping and dining service, Canadian National Railways stated, here.

Mr. Swindon was making a reply to A.H. Dave Rochon, pro-mayor of Montreal, who stated at a public meeting "Mayor Camillien Houde will fight to the last ditch any attempt by the C.N.R. to remove dining car headquarters on the two transcontinental trains from Montreal to Winnipeg."

RE-ARMAMENT OF GERMANY IS LEAGUE PROBLEM

Geneva.—Germany's re-armament and the whole question of preventing future one-sided repudiation of international treaties was thrust squarely on the doorstep of the council of the League of Nations.

Clarifying the hitherto confused picture of just what procedure would be followed here, French Foreign Minister Pierre Laval submitted a draft resolution on behalf of the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy, and on his own behalf backed it up with a strongly-worded denunciation of German re-armament and abrupt repudiation of treaty obligations by her military decrees of March 16.

Great Britain and Italy supported the French spokesman in no uncertain terms, but Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland promptly challenged the draft's proposed strengthening of the league covenant, and with a scarcely-veiled reference to the Franco-Russian accord said Poland wondered whether certain suggested agreements were not calculated to prejudice, rather than foster, the peace of eastern Europe.

The draft resolution was couched in no vigorous terms in its expressions that Germany had failed to keep her obligations, and in denouncing unilateral repudiation of treaties generally, as to bring immediately from Berlin semi-official word that if it is approved as it stands the league statesmen might as well abandon entirely efforts to get Germany back into the league.

NAZI CIRCLES SURPRISED AT LEAGUE DECISION

Berlin.—This capital was the centre of a series of startling rumors following condemnation of Germany by the League of Nations council for violation of the re-armament clauses of the Treaty of Versailles.

General opinion was there would be a brusque retaliatory gesture by Chancellor Adolf Hitler and the form it would take was the subject of various conjectures. It was variously rumored, although in each case without confirmation, that:

Chancellor Hitler would now denounce the whole of the Versailles Treaty.

Germany would break off diplomatic relations with Britain, France and Italy, while feared the resolution of condemnation voted by the league council.

Germany would admit no further restrictions on its sovereignty and would disregard the demilitarized left bank of the Rhine.

The most plausible rumor was that der fuhrer would call for a nationwide referendum to show the world the German people were behind him in his international policies.

In Nazi circles the league's decision came as an overwhelming surprise.

Newspapers contented themselves with attacking the Geneva decision and those who participated in it. Official circles maintained silence. It was intimated, however, that passage of the resolution constituted a serious obstacle to the return of the reich to the league and a feasible development of the European situation.

Until a few days ago Germany had regarded France as isolated in its determination formally to censure the reich for its treaty violation. Britain was viewed as the German spokesman in the Geneva conference and the league council meeting, and to the last the Germans could not believe that the resolution would be passed.

Berlin newspapers indulged in unusually strong language in reporting and commenting on the decision. "Geneva sanctions lie!" The Boersen Zeitung, leading financial paper, said in a big headline, and the words "hypocrisy," "provocation" and "warning" marked press comment.

No Wheat Shortage In U.S.

Estimated Production This Year Placed At 625,000,000 Bushels

Indianapolis.—The United States has now no fear of a great wheat shortage resulting from drouth and dust storms, said G. E. Farrell, director of the division of grains of the agricultural adjustment administration, here.

Farrell, who conducted the first of a series of conferences to be held throughout the middle west and west on plans for holding a referendum on continuing the wheat control program, pointed out the estimated wheat production for this year is 625,000,000 bushels, which is the normal consumption of that grain. In addition there is a surplus of 120,000,000 bushels on hand.

Cancer Fund

Finance Minister Recommends Donation Of $100,000

Ottawa.—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes announced in the House of Commons that government will recommend donation of $100,000 to the King George V. silver jubilee cancer fund for Canada.

The fund was initiated by the Countess of Beesborough, wife of the governor-general as a special thank-offering to the king on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his accession to the throne. Mr. Rhodes made his announcement just before the house rose for the Easter recess.

Peat Fuel Fuel

Ottawa.—The Dominion government is looking into a new process of preparing peat for fuel, Hon. W. A. Gordon, minister of mines, told the House of Commons. He said reports about the progress of negotiations with a company interested in the process were not accurate.

"DIRTY PARTY POLITICS"
DENOUNCED BY A.T.A.

Edmonton, April 23.—Bitter denunciation of "dirty party politics" and "the disgusting behavior of the Alberta legislature" in its handling of bills pertaining to educational matters in this province, featured the opening session of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance annual meeting on Monday.

Deploping action of the legislature repealing the board of reference as provided for in the School Act, and in eliminating the proposal for compulsory membership in a provincial organization under the Teachers' Profession Act, the attacks were led by H. D. Ainley, Edmonton alderman, and J. W. Barnett, general secretary of the A.T.A.

Charges of "underhand tactics" were hurled by A. P. Tingley, city teacher, when he referred to certain anonymous documents which were placed in desks of each member of the legislature attacking proposed legislation favored by the teachers.

Definite action by teachers "to make their forces politically felt in the forthcoming provincial elections" was urged by various delegates. Discussion on this proposal continued at the Tuesday afternoon session of the Alberta Education Federation.

"The legislature handles educational matters with the same consideration that would be given to a simple dog bill," began Mr. Ainley. "In voting down the board of reference they have recognized the teachers as no better than an ordinary hired man. The teachers have been deprived of their right of appeal and are at present outside the law."

SOCIAL CREDIT

It appears that the Social Creditites are getting definitely under way, politically, and are going to enter candidates in the next provincial election, hoping, of course, to elect enough of them to form a Social Credit Government.

Now, we do not understand Social Credit. Any one with the mental capacity to really and fully understand it has no business wasting his youth in a newspaper office. We have a very vague inkling that, in some way, A plus B add up to $25 a month for all the adult population of Alberta. That is about all the Social Credit we have been able to comprehend. We have more than a notion, though, that that also sums up the knowledge of from ninety to ninety-nine per cent of the Alberta electorate on the subject.

But, the possibility that A plus B do add up to $25 monthly is a wonderful one to toy with and Mr. Aberhart and his followers are going to try to make a lot of people in Alberta believe it. Mr. Aberhart and his followers know that enough B (for ballot) plus X (after the right name) add up to from $1800 to $9000 a year anyway.—Wainwright Star.

A COMMUNIST AS EVER

A Communist dashed over to an old friend and comrade.
"Look, look," he cried excitedly, as he pointed to a newspaper, "I won first prize in the sweepstakes! $200,000! Do you hear—I've won $200,000!"

The other Communist eyed his friend coldly.

"What are you going to do with the money?" he enquired.

The lucky Communist thought the matter over for a moment.

"Well," he said finally, "first I'm going to move out of that tenement, and buy myself a mansion on Long Island. I'm going to get me plenty of servants. Then I'm going to buy myself a big Packard, at the very least." "After that, I'm going into my own banking business on Wall Street. I want to triple my money as soon as I can."

The second Communist tossed his friend a hostile stare.

"So," he cried bitterly, "You're forsaking the Communist party, eh?"

A hurt look crept into the first Communist's eyes.

"Don't be silly," he yodeled. "I'm still a Communist at heart."—N.Y. Mirror.

5000 FACTS ABOUT CANADA FOR 1935

The public will again welcome the annual issue of "5000 Facts About Canada," now in its 32nd year, compiled by the well-known Canadian writer and lecturer, Frank Yeigh, and which has won a well deserved popularity for the conciseness and value of its information. It is truly a tabloid cyclopedia of the Dominion—Canada in a nutshell. Here within brief compass are all the salient features of the country for the current year, arranged under fifty chapter heads ranging from Agriculture to Yukon. This handy little volume—"as full of meat as a coconut"—is a revelation of the progressive story of the Dominion in a single year, and should prove a source of encouragement to all and a revelation as well of the favorable trends of recent months. It "sells Canada" most effectively, and its wide circulation is good national business. Copies at 35 cents each, or three for a dollar may be had from 588 Huron Street, Toronto or from leading newswriters.

SALACIOUS MATTER IN U.S.A. NEWSPAPER

At the morning session of the Alberta legislature on April 16th, Attorney-General Lymburn had read into the record a letter of Mr. Howson's sent to him by Mrs. Riley, a Calgary woman, in which he had written that he approved of the lady's efforts to curtail the printing of salacious matter, and thought attention ought also to be given to some of the immoral matters in the advertisements. The meaning of the reference was made clear when Mr. Howson rose.

Reading from the advertising columns of the government party organ a number of standing advertisements of a character frowned by the daily press, owing to their being prohibited by the Criminal Code, Mr. Howson charged that the unfaith of the Attorney-General was made clear by the fact that for years he had allowed these criminal advertisements to appear in the columns of the "United Farmer" and enter the homes of thousands in the province, though as chief law officer of the crown he was under duty to enforce the Criminal Code against them.

The charge came with electrical effect in the House.—Ex.

SOVIET RUSSIA INVITES FORTY SPORTSMEN TO STUDY PHYSICAL CULTURE ADVANCES

Invitation issued by the Society of Physical Culture of Soviet Russia to Canadian sportsmen to send a delegation of forty representative athletes or outstanding amateur sports supporters to Soviet Russia this summer for the purpose of studying Russia's sport activities, is being considered by representative groups of men in various centres, Calgary sportsmen having appointed a committee to investigate the advisability of sending a Calgary delegate on the excursion.

Attempts are now being made to interest Drumheller sportsmen in this question with a view to having one delegate from the Drumheller valley visit the U.S.S.R., and it is understood that a number of men interested in various sports activities have consented to act on a special committee.

According to information given The New Review, a sum of $150 must be raised to pay expenses of the delegate from the district to the point of sailing, all other expenses being paid for by the Soviet sports organization.

This invitation junket is in line with similar excursions in past years, the medical profession having been invited this year to send over a delegation to investigate Russia's advances in surgery and medicine.—Drumheller New Review.

ISSUE WARNING AGAINST ADULTERATED MAPLE PRODUCTS

"The 1935 crop of maple syrup and maple sugar will soon be on the market for the sap is running in the maple trees in Eastern Canada, the pure and certain sign that spring is just around the corner," says R. L. Wheeler, fruit commissioner, Dominion Department of Agriculture. "It would be well for everyone who desires only the pure products to make it a point to see that the container is stamped 'Pure Maple Syrup' or 'Pure Maple Sugar' for many attempts are being made to sell adulterated maple products."

"The Maple Sugar Industry Act and Regulations," explained Mr. Wheeler, "state that 'no person shall manufacture for sale, sell or offer, expose or hold for sale any maple syrup or maple sugar that is adulterated or any sugar or syrup resembling or being an imitation of maple syrup or maple sugar which is not pure maple syrup or pure maple sugar, unless the nature and origin of such sugar and syrup shall be clearly indicated.' Inspectors of the Department throughout Canada are keeping a sharp lookout for those violating the Act, the penalty for which is a heavy fine or imprisonment."

CANADIAN PACIFICBright Stories about Wine
HOPE FROM THE BALKANS

● We said in our last piece that wine-making might be a larger industry than it is in Canada if early vineyardists had realized from the beginning that the grape native to North America, the vitis labrusca, had its own special merits, and had not persisted in their thousand and one experiments with vitis vinifera, which was famous but consumptive so far as this continent is concerned. It is worth noting, though it may be more interesting to the vineyardists than to the general public, that in Ontario we have been conducting some further experiments with the vine of Europe which give promise of greater success than ever before. We have been testing a variety of vinifera which grows well in Bulgaria in the hope, if not indeed the expectation, that it will prove more suitable to our climate on the Niagara Peninsula than any of its numerous brethren which have had all merits but the important one of being able to live.

● Stranger things have happened than that the traditional European grape should prosper on our soil. There is knowledge reaped by experience now at the disposal of the horticultural experts which was not available a hundred years ago or even ten years ago. What has happened to the wheat in the West may well happen to the grape in the East. The hybridists are at work and are prepared to swear that sooner or later they will produce a grape which will have all the disease-resisting qualities of the native grape and the special qualities so much admired in the European grape. There is no reason why it shouldn't be so. There is the man in Russia who is called the Russian Burbank. His name is L. V. Michurin. He has developed grapes to flourish in Siberia. And if in Siberia, why not in the Peace River district? And where grapes grow, sound wine can be made.

A DOG'S PARADISE

In truth, there is one place in Western Canada that is a veritable dog's paradise. And that place is Oliver, B.C., where, according to Wallace Smith, former editor of the Bassano Mail, there are no fleas to hound a dog and make his life irritating.

Mr. Smith says: "Rather peculiar, this absence of fleas in the Oliver valley, but it's a fact. Last summer the local police officer spent two weeks' holidays at Vancouver and took his dog with him. While in the coast city the dog became covered with fleas, but two days after his return to Oliver there wasn't a flea to be found on the dog, and he had entirely quit scratching!"

POTATOES SUPPLY ENERGY

The potato is pre-eminent among the vegetables used for food. Not only does the potato furnish considerable nutriment but supplies it in an easily digestible form. The starch in potatoes is more readily digested than the starch of some other starch-producing foods. However, as the potato is somewhat deficient in protein and fats, it should not be used exclusively in the diet, but should be combined with lean meat, legumes, eggs, or other protein or fat-supplying foods.

The method of cooking potatoes has some effect upon the quality and food-value. Boiled potatoes are most likely to lose in food value during cooking. This loss can be minimized by cooking with the skins on. Baked potatoes lose very little, either in nutriment or in quality when cooked. They are usually more meaty than potatoes which have been boiled or steamed. Mashed potatoes are improved in taste by the addition of milk, cream or butter. This makes them higher in fat than when they are boiled or baked. Potatoes fried in fat are richest in food nutriment. The water is largely extracted and much fat is absorbed. When possible it is best to cook potatoes with their skins on. Peeled potatoes, soaked in water before cooking, often lose as high as 7 per cent of their nutriment.

Potato Recipes

Duchess Potatoes—Two cups hotriced potatoes and two tablespoons of butter, one-half teaspoon salt and yolks of three eggs, slightly beaten. Shape, using pastry bag and tube, in form of baskets, pyramids, etc. Brush over with beaten egg diluted with one teaspoon of water and brown in a hot oven.

Scalloped Potatoes—Wash, pare, and cut four potatoes in one-fourth inch slices. Put a layer in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and dot over with one-half tablespoon of butter. Repeat until all the potatoes are used. A few slices of onion may be added if desired. Add hot milk until it may be seen through the top layer; bake one and one-fourth hours or until potatoes are soft.

Franconia Potatoes—Prepare as for boiled potatoes, and parboil ten minutes; drain, and place in pan in which meat is roasting; bake until soft, basting with fat in pan, when basting meat. Time required for baking about forty minutes. Sweet potatoes may be prepared the same way.

Potato Croquettes—2 cups hotriced potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon celery salt, few grains cayenne, few drops onion juice, yolk one egg, 1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley. Mix ingredients in order given, and beat thoroughly. Shape, dip in crumbs, egg and crumbs again; fry one minute in deep fat, and drain on brown paper. Croquettes are shaped in a variety of forms. The most common way is to form first a smooth ball by rolling one rounding tablespoon of mixture between hands. Then roll on a board until of desired length and flatten ends.

MOSCOW STUDYING TWINS

Moscow, Russia, is making a study of twins, and has ordered doctors to report the births of all pairs so that they may be taken to a special institution for care and observation. All the twins live in the institute away from their parents. Here they get special feeding and attention. Doctors and psychologists carry on daily tests, and observe the twins through "magic mirrors" which can be seen through from the back, but look like ordinary mirrors in front. Mothers are willing to have their children in the institute because there they get better feeding and care than is possible at home. Malieva, the woman who has just given birth to quadruplets, has been taken to Moscow with her four babies. Another woman has just given birth to triplets in Moscow.

TRADE AGREEMENT WITH CANADA WOULD KEEP UNITED STATES FROM STARVING

"Facing a condition during the next fifteen months that is tantamount to starvation, the United States still withholds action on a reciprocal trade agreement with Canada that would release this country's abundant reserves."

This is the pointed comment of Thomas Wayland, who writes in Liberty Magazine in conjunction with Charles W. Burkett, noted agricultural authority, who, in the same publication, sees many Americans in the low-wage class, facing actual starvation as the result of the drought and the United States curtailment program.

Mr. Burkett's statement, "People can starve just as readily by eating improper food as they can by not having enough food," draws the belief from Mr. Wayland that "red tape and tariff barriers are doing a great injustice in both countries, when Canada stands ready to supply fruits, meats, dairy products and vegetables."

According to Mr. Burkett, who takes his figures from a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, every person needs 1,800 pounds of food a year. On this basis the United States production of foodstuffs in 1929 was seventeen per cent less than needed.

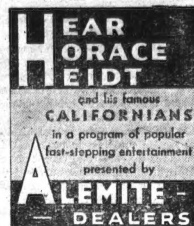

"Yet in 1930, a year later, the American tariff went into effect and Canadian food exports to that country went steadily down. From $22,000,000 in 1930 it dropped to $2,000,000 in 1934," Mr. Wayland writes.

NEED A SIXTH SENSE!

The day before yesterday a perfectly nice lady called us up and with tears in her voice reproved us for not mentioning the fact that she had a friend staying with her last week. We told her she did not let us know about it. Then she said, "Well, you should know. I thought you were running a newspaper." Wouldn't that rattle your slats? Some people think that an editor ought to be a cross between Argus and Walter Winchell. They seem to think our five senses are augmented by a sixth that lets us know everything that happens, even if we see, feel, hear, taste or smell it or not. Dear lady, editors are only human; if you have a friend visiting you, if you are going away, if Johnnie falls and breaks his arm, if your husband chops his toe instead of a stick of wood, if anything happens that makes you glad or sad, happy or mad, call us up. That's the way to get it in the paper. Our phone is one-one.

SELECTING A WIFE

There was Bill W. Jones. Bill was a woman hater if I ever saw one. No woman had any chance in the world. And so, when the news got about that Bill had took until him a wife, I asked him how come.

"Well," he said meditatively, "I needed a necktie. So I went into the Katon's store for men and the girl that waited on me acted pretty decent about it. The next day I needed a pair of socks, so I went there again, and the same girl was there. Well, I kept going there, and so we got married."

"Were you satisfied?" I asked. "Oh," replied my friend with a grin of boredom, "I expect I could have done as well at Thompson's or at some of the bigger stores."—Ex.

Approaching the driver she impatiently inquired, "Does this bus have to stop at every telephone pole along the highway?"

And the driver very courteously replied, "You must remember, madam, this bus is a Greyhound."

THE TENDERFOOT

By GEORGE B. RODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail," "The Canyon Trail," etc.

Peyotl giggled at him. "Oh, hell, man! There's no use skrimshin' with us. We found the bandanna you dropped when you stuck the pistol in old man Carr's pocket. Come across."

"I got the pistol from Mister Dustin's desk," said Peyotl. "What now?"

"You come with us," said Jameson shortly.

CHAPTER XVII.

Sheriff Garcey sprang to his feet as Jameson's car stopped outside his office. He had just taken old Carr to a bedroom and seen him tucked away for the night under a dose of Bromide. He ran down the steps and almost gripped Jameson from the wheel. Then he saw Peyotl huddled in the back seat.

"What you got, Evan?" he demanded. "This's as bad a mess as I ever saw. Old Joe's pretty crazy. He swears he didn't tell me that shootin' because he can't."

"Is he drinkin' again?"

"He is not but I gave him some dope. Anybody who can throw some light on this blot'll be doin' a favor."

"That's what I brought Stone and this man for. Take him inside, Jim."

Garcey drew Peyotl forth and gave one indignant sniff at him. "You smell like somethin' the dog buried," he growled. "Where'd you get that stuff from?"

Peyotl crouched and gibbered. "I been plinchin' the people who use that for three years an' now you got the nerve to come right to my office stinkin' of it. Come inside."

Inside the little office, Garcey flung Peyotl into a chair and turned to Stone.

"Shoot," he said tersely. "And for God's sake try to git on the target the first shot."

Without a word, Stone laid on the desk the bandanna neckerchief, the Derringer pistol, the pieces of cigarettes and the entire one that he had taken from Dustin. Then

"reconstruct the affair this way," he said. "Here's what I can swear to."

"He told them only what he actually knew. . . . That he had taken those peyoti cigarettes from Dustin's pocket. Then he swung on Peyotl, who sat staring dully at him."

"Where did you get this pistol?" he asked shortly. "We know you shot Keene. The smell of the peyoti on the neckerchief gives you away. Where'd you get this pistol from?"

"Unless you want to hang, you'd better talk," said Garcey. Still Peyotl stared at them. Finally he muttered dully:

"For the murder of Gerald Keene," quoth Jameson.

Stone laughed and Garcey stared at his headlessness.

"I got hopes to give out the false news of his death," he said. "He's not dead and he isn't going to die for some time. I hope. I just want to see what Dustin's game'll be when he hears Keene was killed by Carr."

"What do you reckon'll happen?"

"? You'll be gone three or four days. You can't keep a dead man

"I took the pistol from Mist' Sam's desk."

"Whose desk?"

"He means Dustin," said Jameson quickly. "How did you put the gun in Mr. Carr's pocket? Better tell all you know."

"Easy enough," said Peyotl. "I slipped in through the back door the minute the light went out. I shot the gun an' stuck it in Mr. Carr's coat. Then I got out before the light came on again."

"Why did you want to shoot a man you'd never seen?" asked Stone. "A man you didn't even know."

"Why?"

"I knowed who he was," said Peyotl. "Mist' Sam told me. He was a man who come out here to."

"Keene," said Stone sharply. "Not Kane but Keene."

"Same thing," said Peyotl obstinately. "Mist' Sam told me so."

"I see. . . ." Stone leaped to his feet with an oath. "This poor fool has played on by Dustin. Dustin holds Carr's note for half the Hour-glass. He wanted the other half that Keene owns. He played on this poor fool. . . . When he jammed the rag and gun in Carr's pocket. . . . Did Dustin tell you to shoot this man?"

"He wheeled on the shrinking man."

"No, sir. He didn't know I had the gun."

Garcey, whose face was blood-red with astonishment, stared from man to man.

"Who would Sam Dustin be mixed up in a thing like this?" he asked.

"I'll tell you. . . ." Stone repeated after the note. He told about his fight with Dustin at Soda Springs.

"There's another reason why he wants the Hour-glass too," he said. "I'll show you. I've got it in the car."

He almost leaped down the steps to the car and was back instantly with a little canvas sack that he emptied on the desk.

"Gold ore," he said. "From a vein that Kane found on the lands of the Hour-glass. Look at this piece."

His hand hit that of brown-stained piece that he had picked up by the old camp-fire. The next moment Peyotl gave a half-scream and slumped into a heap over the desk.

"Not that!" he shrieked. "For Christ's sake not that! I didn't go to do it. . . . My God!"

He gibbered and moaned till they thought he had lost what little mind he had.

"There's a lot behind this that we haven't uncovered," said Stone.

"Peyotl," he said. "His tone rang out sharply. 'Where's the old man Kane?'"

"I . . ."

"I told you what Buxton said," said Jameson. "That's blood on that stone."

"I didn't go to do it," quavered Peyotl. The sound of his own voice he heard. "My God!"

"You found his head at the others who stole shoes from their seats."

"How'd you come to do it, Peyotl?" he asked.

"I swear to God I don't know," wailed Peyotl. "I was layin' by the peyoti cigarettes. I got 'em from his pack. . . . No I didn't. . . . He got 'em out and laid 'em by his saddle and I swiped 'em. . . . Then I went to sleep. . . . When I come to, Mist' Sam was shakin' me and old Kane was 'yin' there with his head all bashed in. That rock was in my hand but. . . . I swear to God, I don't know no more'n you do about a fight."

"No wonder we couldn't find Kane," said Stone in a half-whisper. "Where'd you bury him?" he asked quietly though the very hair on his head was rising.

"Up there. . . . In Red Water canon," said Peyotl vaguely.

Stone turned to Garcey and Jameson.

"The whole story hinges on whether this poor fool is telling the truth or not," he said. "It's his tellin' the truth, then old man Kane's been murdered. Get me two ponies at once, Garcey. If it's all right with you, I'll take this poor devil to show me the place. If we find Kane's body there we'll know Peyotl told us the truth and that Sam Dustin is the man we want."

"For the murder of Gerald Keene," quoth Jameson.

Stone laughed and Garcey stared at his headlessness.

"I got hopes to give out the false news of his death," he said. "He's not dead and he isn't going to die for some time. I hope. I just want to see what Dustin's game'll be when he hears Keene was killed by Carr."

Why at 40 You Think You're "GROWING OLD"

It's frequently just an "idea." Not "Old Age." And According to Scientists, May be Something No More Alarming Than a Touch of Acid Stomach.

At about 40, many people think they're "growing old." They're tired a lot. Have headaches. Stomach upsets. Dizziness. Nausea.

Well, scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is merely an acid condition of the stomach. The thing to do is simply to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed.

Try this. You'll feel like another person. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Also in Tablet Form.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores.

that long. Dustin'll find out that Keene's not dead."

"That's so. I better swear out a warrant against Dustin. You can arrest him, Sheriff, and hold him three or four days so he will not know I've taken Peyotl off into the hills."

"That's better. . . . Garcey sat up. . . . 'What'll you charge him with?'"

Stone considered. "I could swear out a warrant for cattle rustlin' but he'd get out on bond. I might lose a charge. My God!"

He gibbered and moaned till they thought he had lost what little mind he had.

"I've got him as sure as shootin'."

"I found him with those dope cigarettes on the land and Peyotl says he's been supplied with peyoti by Dustin. I charge him with violation of the Narcotic Law."

"That's a Federal offense as well as a State violation. Grab him on that charge."

Garcey rose tempestuously.

"By God," he said; "I'll do it. It's takin' a big chance. All depends on what you find. If that car Peyotl has told the truth. . . . which I don't believe. . . . then Dustin is in one hell of a mess. If he's lied. . . . and if I arrest the richest cattleman in Secco valley on a false charge, then I'm in one hell of a fix and I'll sure pass it on to you."

"That's all right. . . ." Stone grinned. "You get me the ponies and after I've gone, arrest Dustin and don't let him talk or get word. I'll leave at day-light."

They left at dawn with a sand-storm brewing. It began in stiff puffs that started the tumble-weed rolling across the mesa and raised whirling "dust-devils" across the plain. All day they pounded along through the growing storm and made a dry camp at Coyote Crossing.

The ponies made no attempt to forage but stood with lowered heads and turned their rumps to the wind that drove the sand like shot and piled it deep in the blankets.

"It'll be clear to-morrow," growled Peyotl. "A sandstorm never lasts but three days."

Dawn came clear and cold and Peyotl lapsed into silence that grew with each mile. Old dreams came to him, old visions appeared in a series of broken scenes. For years of use of that debasing drug had worked on a brain that was never too strong. They were never pleasant dreams. They were just the horrible phantasmagoria of a partially disordered brain.

Grimacing faces bobbed above a saw-toothed sky-line. They hung to that sky-line with claw-like hands as birds hang to a telegraph wire and then they were snatched away at him and then ducked behind their menacing claws. A weeping face, the face of old Dad Kane, stared at him from a distant pile of rocks where Stone saw only a coyote yelling. From time to time Peyotl wiped the sweat out of his eyes and furtively looked at Stone. How many of these things were real? How much did Stone see?

But Stone rode on through the shifting sands deep in thought. Peyotl broke one of his infernal cigarettes into pieces and chewed the fragments as a dog chews an old boot. Suddenly. . . .

A burro blundered out from the mesquite-tangle and jogged across the trail, a loaded burro with a top-pick of two buckets, a pick and a shovel. . . . Exactly as old Dad Kane used to make the trail. Peyotl could even see the "Squaw-bitch" that held it! That burro was not six paces in front of Stone when Peyotl shouted, his voice shrill with terror. Then the unspeakable happened.

Stone rode straight through that burro as a man rides through smoke.

Then the burro with his pack disappeared in the sand-land air and a sudden swirl of yellow dust drove down over the place where he had been.

Peyotl shouted aloud in shrill voice of terror and Stone turned on him with a hearty curse. He saw at once that something very real was the matter. Peyotl's eyes were white-rimmed with fright but there was no sight in them. If he was seeing things then they were things unseen by him. His mouth was working and white foam lay in the corner of his mouth.

"My God," he said, and his voice broke. . . . "Did you see that? You rode right through him! A loaded burro right in yore path and you rode straight through him!"

Stone jerked his head from his saddle, swung from his own horse and stood over the cowering wretch.

"This sand-storm's had enough," he growled, "without my havin' to ride the range with a damned fool of a drug-addict. Where's any burro?"

"There! . . . My God! There he is!"

Peyotl's wavering finger swung to a spot; then it bobbed up and down as though following a moving burro. Stone's eyes followed the moving finger and saw, above a mesquite bush, the figure of a burro! For a second he stared at it half-paralyzed, then he realized what it was and he began to laugh; a relieved cackle of shrill-voiced laughter that startled himself.

"It's a mirage, you fool," he said. "Look! Don't you see the line of light up this fence; between him and the ground?"

He picked up a rock and threw it with all his force and it struck ground exactly where the burro stood.

"Some prospector over in another valley has got in just the right position for his reflection to be lifted over to us. Let's go on."

But Peyotl would not go on. He hung to Stone's stirrup leather and he babbled wildly as Stone had never heard a man talk before; exactly like a frightened child trying to talk to his mother.

"Say, Stone," he said in a burst of incoherence, "do you believe the dead kin come back?"

"What? Come back? Come back from where? Do you reckon any man who's got a warm place in hell could try to come back to this place? Who'd you think you saw, Peyotl?"

"It looked to me like old Dad Kane was at that burro's heels. I seemed to see him with a chaw of tobacco as big as a lemon in his mouth. . . . a short-handed fry-pan sticking in his boot like he always carried it."

Phoenix like, German cities of the future will rise out of ashes—rather ash cans—scientific circles assert. Garbage from ash cans is to be processed to produce a building material having the elasticity of felt, the solidity of wood, the non-conductivity of cork and the non-inflammability of asbestos, it was asserted by German professors charged with research in "erasts".

"It's a mirage, you fool," he said. "Look! Don't you see the line of light up this fence; between him and the ground?"

He picked up a rock and threw it with all his force and it struck ground exactly where the burro stood.

"Some prospector over in another valley has got in just the right position for his reflection to be lifted over to us. Let's go on."

But Peyotl would not go on. He hung to Stone's stirrup leather and he babbled wildly as Stone had never heard a man talk before; exactly like a frightened child trying to talk to his mother.

"Say, Stone," he said in a burst of incoherence, "do you believe the dead kin come back?"

"What? Come back? Come back from where? Do you reckon any man who's got a warm place in hell could try to come back to this place? Who'd you think you saw, Peyotl?"

"It looked to me like old Dad Kane was at that burro's heels. I seemed to see him with a chaw of tobacco as big as a lemon in his mouth. . . . a short-handed fry-pan sticking in his boot like he always carried it."

New Building Material

Phoenix like, German cities of the future will rise out of ashes—rather ash cans—scientific circles assert. Garbage from ash cans is to be processed to produce a building material having the elasticity of felt, the solidity of wood, the non-conductivity of cork and the non-inflammability of asbestos, it was asserted by German professors charged with research in "erasts".

Working Out Plans To Straddle The World With Airship Services

Air travel pioneers of various nationalities are working out plans to straddle the world with airship services running to a regular schedule. American and German interests are in the forefront of the negotiations.

Already plans to run German and American airship lines across the North Atlantic have been announced. The South Atlantic is already spanned.

Now the Pacific, the Far East, Europe, North and South America, Canada, and probably other Dominions are to be linked.

South Africa will be joined to Germany by zeppelin.

A giant new ship is near completion in the airship docks at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

When it is ready it will make a few trial trips across the North Atlantic. Then it will be replaced by other ships and will run on the South American service.

American plans include a Pacific service and a trans-Atlantic service. A base will be built in Britain either at Croydon or the R.A.F. station at Southampton.

Southampton's plans, as yet incomplete, include a floating airship dock, but this will only be built if a regular port of call is made there.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

UPON THIS HOUSE

A mark is set upon this house which stands With shutters broken and one faded door Left open for the wind's impatient hands To clutch and slam, to seize and slam once more.

Through hours and days for lack of better toy, But, though its portal thus unguarded, ed waits.

Not caring whether sorrow come or joy, The mark is there; the stranger hesitates To brave the sullen aspect of the place.

Is it the spell of utter loneliness. Is it the mockery of its one-time grace, Is it the threat its shadowing walls express That makes men pass in haste and silently?

Upon this house, the mark of mystery!

Find Buttery in Mine

Miners in Frickley Colliery at Yorkshire, England, recently saved a brilliantly-colored butterfly from the mine. They found it one and one-half miles from the pit bottom and 1800 feet below ground. It was thought to have been taken into the mine with straw for the pit ponies. The men carried it to the surface and released it.

Customer: "What do you mean by sending me such a tough fowl?"

Butcher: "Why my good man, do you happen to know that that bird has won first prize at all the local poultry shows for the last 15 years."

Experiments with loud-speaking telephones are being made; using such apparatus, a speaker could walk about the room while telephoning.

Little Helps For This Week

Now unto Him who is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we can ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory throughout all ages, world without end. Ephesians 3:20-21.

We would not ask for meagre gifts—

When Thou dost yearn to give us all; But for this life, this little hour, Ask all Thy love and care and power.

God so loveth us that He would make all things channels to us and messengers of His love. Do for His sake deeds of love, and He will give thee His love. Still thyself, thy own cares and thoughts for Him, and He will speak to thy heart. Ask for Himself and He will give thee Himself. Truly a secret hidden thing is the love of God, known only to them that seek it, and to them also secret, for what man can have of it there is how slight a foretaste of that endless ocean of His love.

A Valuable Painting

Grime-covered Pictures May Prove To Be Original Rembrandts

A grime-covered picture sold at auction for $35 may be an original Rembrandt and worth from $30,000 to $35,000, it became known at Ottawa. Steps to learn the authenticity of the painting were immediately taken by the purchaser, whose name, J. E. Graham, the auctioneer, refused to divulge.

Potential value of the painting was not realized until after it had been cleaned and the signature of the Dutch master appeared, together with the date, 1678.

An auto-mechanic has just completed a million-dollar proving-ground to give his car the acid test in staying power and endurance. It seems to us a much simpler method would be to let a friend take it over the week-end.

We have recorded no less than nine taxpayers who have raised the question as to whether Bill Knight has permitted himself to be assessed for his portion of the Bannan judgment fee. As a matter of fact, it is a pity that the whole burden could not be attached to the mayor and councillors themselves.

Mystery surrounds the death of Miss Helena Lucinda Dahl, a waitress in a Drumheller restaurant, who passed away on April 17th. The doctor who was called in to attend the patient when she was rushed to hospital, refused to sign a death certificate. As a result, a coroner's inquest was ordered.

It is rather notable that in two recent interest bills, both introduced by George Coote, the assistance of Hon. H. H. It was interesting on Wednesday last to notice Murphy's followers, most of whom cannot think for themselves, swallowing his and Stokluk's guff about Corbin, particularly that part of story about the policeman, a miner and a woman being killed. Without a doubt, Murphy and Stokluk knew better, but they used that story to help excite their local gang.

The name of a private citizen appears in a printed column on Blaimore's Tax notices. One can read petty spite through it. It would have been just as reasonable to have provided columns for the Knight-Buck boulevard, treasury shortages during the past few years, etc., all of which have formed a far greater black eye to Blaimore than the one set out on that notice.

The death occurred at Calgary on Friday afternoon last of Andrew Kidd, aged 78.
